This jury, however, is not expected to conduct a separate inquiry, but will turn over evidence it may gather to the special session of the baseball jury.

MATTY, FROM SICK BED, ASKS FANS TO BE LOYAL

Says Great Majority of Ball Players Are Honest.

SPECIAL DESPATCH TO THE HERALD.
SARANAC LAKE, Oct. 4.—Declaring that all players in the major leagues are not to be judged by the actions of those who have been indicted in the recent baseball scandal, Christy Mathewson, famous pitcher of the Giants, and former manager of the Cincinnati Reds, has sent out an appeal from his sick bed to the fans and lovers of baseball to remember it is not the majority which is represented among the guilty. His plea was made public Saturday afternoon by his wife because of the strict orders of his physicians prohibiting any person from visiting him.

Following closely newspaper accounts, Matty has shown deep interest in the proceedings and has expressed regret over his inability to take an active part in keeping the sport clean from bribery. He has utter contempt for the player who will sell himself for a paltry sum in order to betray his teammates and club, and in referring to those who had admitted their part in the scandal he has called them the "shipyard gang," as they entered the shipyards throughout the country, it is said, when the Government order of either "fight or work" was put into effect during the world war.

Matty deplors the actions of those who have allowed themselves to be dragged into the mire of disgrace and who have dealt a damaging blow at the national pastime. He feels, however, as it is a small minority which is concerned the public will realize the majority of players are working for the betterment of the game and will not lower themselves to betray their fellow players and their clubs.

INSISTS ABE KNOWS OF 'MASTER MIND'

But Swann Cannot Get Fighter to 'Chat' About World Series.

HE HAS OTHER NAMES

Men Lost Big Sums in Chicago to a 'Well Known' Gambler Here.

The master mind in the fixing of the 1919 world's series was the subject yesterday of vigorous but long distance contention between District Attorney Edward Swann and William J. Fallon, attorney for Abe Attell, former boxer, for whom process servers have been hunting for five days.

"There is no master mind," Mr. Fallon declared. "That idea is nonsensical. Even the newsboys in the streets last year knew the series was fixed. Do you think in those circumstances really big gamblers would have a thing to do with it? If there had been a master mind this thing would never have become known."

"There is a master mind," District Attorney Swann declared in his office in the Criminal Courts Building. "It is a peculiar fact that so many persons run to the rescue of this man, whose name has been mentioned several times recently in the newspapers, and assert he is innocent. I have found out one illuminating article concerning the activities of this gentleman and placed it in the files for the information of future District Attorneys."

The continued absence of Abe Attell, whom District Attorney Swann believes could tell much about the "master mind," and other witnesses made the Grand Jury investigation of gambling on the series impossible. Mr. Fallon was emphatic in his determination not to produce Abe for a conversation with Mr. Swann.

"If a representative of the District Attorney came here with a mandatory Grand Jury subpoena and asked you to bring Attell to the Criminal Courts Building for questioning by the Grand Jury, would you produce him?" Mr. Fallon was asked.

"Certainly not," he replied. "I am not a process server. If they want Attell let them go and get him. Why should Attell go to the District Attorney just for a social chat. Of course he will answer a subpoena to appear before the Grand Jury where specific charges are made or there is an indictment. To appear before the Grand Jury under present circumstances, when no real investigation is pending, would be nothing more than going for a little chat."

"So far as I know, he is," he replied. "Why shouldn't he be? I haven't seen him for several days, but he has stopped talking and he's not going to say anything more if I can prevent it. Even if Attell had guilty knowledge of this fixing or crooked gambling, and I think him innocent, he is not going before the Grand Jury to try to clear himself by putting the blame on somebody else. And even if he goes before the Grand Jury it doesn't mean he will say anything."

Mr. Fallon insisted that Attell knew little or nothing about the series. He preached Chicago the night before the start of the series last year and may have heard and acted upon the report that the series was fixed. Mr. Fallon said. He also asserted that Attell had said that as far as he knew Arnold Rothstein had absolutely nothing to do with it.

In this connection Mr. Fallon pointed out that Rothstein was approached by fixers while in the Hotel Astor and in the presence of several reputable men, "including a member of the bench." The gambler resented the offer and nearly came to blows with the fixers.

District Attorney Swann was just as positive that Abe Attell knew a great deal as Mr. Fallon was certain he did not.

SAYS ATTELL KNOWS

"If Attell should tell all he knows he would implicate greater than he," the District Attorney asserted. "I have the names of several gentlemen well known up and down Broadway, and, in the words of the song, 'all around the town,' who lost and lost very heavily to a certain well known gambler who persuaded them to bet on Chicago while he backed Cincinnati. This gambler was 'in the know.' A rapid exchange of money from the suckers to him followed. He won every time. This man is the master mind."

"I cannot persuade two very well known men who lost heavily to come down here to tell me or the Grand Jury of their losses. These gentlemen, wealthy, but not so very wise, would rather lose their money than be known as suckers."

When informed that a member of the bar had been present when Rothstein refused to have anything to do with the fixers, Mr. Swann exclaimed: "I would bring such a man before the Grand Jury twice as quickly as I would that of a poor devil ignorant of the law. If a Judge was present and had guilty knowledge that the White Sox had been bribed he isn't a fit man to sit on the bench. But I doubt that you could find a Judge on the bench in the whole city who would listen to such a proposition without promptly disclosing it to the District Attorney."

NOT TO CALL ROTHSTEIN

Questioned why he did not call Rothstein before the Grand Jury Mr. Swann said he would under no circumstances do this. He added that he would give Attell immunity in this county by permitting him to tell all he knew about those involved to the Grand Jury. The appearance of Attell before that body would automatically make certain his freedom from prosecution under state law.

"Sport" Sullivan, indicted in Chicago for his alleged connection with the bribery of the White Sox, was still in town, according to reports. Mr. Fallon said William J. Kelly, counsel for the indicted man, had asked him to act as attorney for Sullivan in Chicago, and that he was considering the matter. He said Attell did not know Sullivan.

County Judge Norman S. Dike, in charging the October Kings County Grand Jury, urged that action be taken against gamblers who may have conspired to attempt to corrupt the Brooklyn team. He said that the Brooklyn players have been found above suspicion but urged that if any plan had been made to tamper with them the guilty ones be punished.

District Attorney Lewis of Kings received a telegram from State Attorney Macley Hoyne of Chicago declaring that he had no information concerning an attempt to fix the series which begins to-day.

WILSON APPEAL SETS BACK HARDING ODDS

Quoted Now 4-1 Favorite Instead of 5 to 1.

In response to President Wilson's statement published in yesterday's morning newspapers relative to the League of Nations, odds on Harding to be elected President receded somewhat in the Wall Street betting. Whereas at the close of last week they were 5 to 1, yesterday they went back to 4 to 1.

W. L. Darnell, who was offering $3,000 against $2,000. The same firm last week were willing to lay $10,000 against $2,000.

Darnell & Co. were also ready yesterday to make the following additional wagers: 3 to 5 that Harding will carry Ohio; 3 to 5 he carries that State by 20,000; 2 to 1 he carries New York State, and 4 to 5 he carries it by 200,000. The firm likewise has money to place on even terms that the Republican Presidential candidate carries Greater New York.

On the Governorship contest in this State Miller is a strong 9 to 5 favorite over Gov. Al Smith.

Betting on the outcome of the elections is becoming more active and yesterday several thousand dollars were put up with Darnell & Co.

BORAH SPEAKS FOR REPUBLICANS

they understand and have so declared that once in the method of getting it is wholly immaterial. Once there we must assume all the obligations and deal with all the situations which our presence there inevitably incurs.

"I repeat, therefore, that while the question is a stupendous one, involving, as I sincerely believe, the whole future of this republic, nevertheless it is plain and simple. It is the question upon which every great and noble American has advised against from Washington to Roosevelt.

"The thing which makes this republic powerful for good is its complete freedom and its unembarrassed right to throw its influence on the side of justice and peace in every great crisis of affairs. Witness some of those scenes at Versailles, such as the betrayal of China—the deal by which Shantung was bartered away to an unfriendly Power—America sat in the settlement and was silent. If not silent, then by reason of her association powerless. That is the first time in all her history that she conspired at the betrayal of a friendly people and broke every pledge, legal and moral, which a people could make. And that is the first time that the United States ever sat in on a European settlement."

"That was one of her first if not the first act as a copartner of the Old World. Witness also Corea begging of the Peace Conference for at least a hearing not alone on the principle of self-determination, but for the God given right of self-preservation. The hearing was denied her. She sat silent, powerless. That was the second act of her copartnership with Europe.

"And so came India and Syria and Egypt and Ireland asking at least for a hearing. But a hearing was denied—denied by America. Who doubts that had the President been free he, as the representative of the United States, would have given them a hearing. But he was a member of an embryonic league. He was in a partnership and compelled to respect the wishes of his copartners. So for the first time in the history of this republic the representatives of America were compelled to turn a deaf ear to those who were asking for a hearing—for justice for freedom for liberty.

"Now they ask us to sit in as a permanent member of the league. As you know Mr. Balfour says that this League of Nations is nothing more than the Versailles conference under another name. In this league, one vote in Europe may veto every move for justice or for freedom of an oppressed people. In this league, by reason of our association, as at Versailles we are no longer that unembarrassed and independent people, free to throw our influence and counsel upon the side of right. The fighting strength and moulding powers of the Republican party, of the party of Lincoln, of Garfield and of Roosevelt, joined by hundreds of thousands of Democrats, will never compromise on this question. There is to-day in the world no influence for peace and for civilization equal to the free and untrammelled American and the best citizenship of the country, regardless of party, will preserve that influence, uncompromised and untarnished."

BORAH CONTINUES ON SPEAKING TOUR

Rumors of Quitting Campaign Exploded by Senator.

Concrete evidence that Senator William E. Borah of Idaho had not quit the Republican campaign was given yesterday when he had a conference with Col. Thomas W. Miller, chairman of the Eastern speakers' bureau of the Republican National Committee, in regard to his further plans for aiding in the campaign.

The conference was held while Senator Borah was waiting for a train to take him to Danbury, where last night he made the first of a series of four speeches in Connecticut. To-morrow night he speaks in New Haven, in Hartford on Thursday and on Friday in Bridgeport.

Senator Borah told Col. Miller it would be all right to go ahead at once and make appointments for him to speak in New Hampshire, where Senator Moses is running for reelection. Regarding other definite plans the Senator will confer with Col. Miller on his way back from Connecticut. He is anxious to campaign for Senator Watson in Indiana and former Gov. Frank B. Willis, Senatorial nominee in Ohio. If there is enough time the Senator may make "it so," said Col. Miller last night, "he will speak in New York State for Senator Wadsworth and in Maryland, where O. E. Weller is the Senatorial nominee. We would like to use him in North Carolina and in one district in northern Alabama, where a Congressman may be elected, but we may not be able to do this because of the shortness of time."

WALKER ASKS WOMEN TO DEFEAT WADSWORTH

Promises Consideration First to Them if Elected.

Harry C. Walker, Democratic candidate for United States Senator, gave an informal talk yesterday afternoon at the Commodore Hotel to a gathering of Democratic women and a sprinkling of Republican women, who are opposing the reelection of Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr.

Mrs. Alice Duer Miller, who is related by marriage to Senator Wadsworth, presided and called upon the women to help elect Mr. Walker.

Mr. Walker said that he realized the first day of registration would cause many women to stay away from the meeting, but that he felt that the demonstration they gave him had a deeper reason than a mere reception to a State candidate. "This gathering means a demonstration on your part," he declared, "against continuing that form of representation which has denied to you that which should have been your right a long time ago. That representation is a travesty."

"It's easy to understand why Mr. Wadsworth is a reactionary. His birth and training and his whole political career have tended to make him the stamp and type he is to-day. He opposed woman suffrage because he knew it meant woman's progress. If I am elected to the Senate I promise to give consideration to women's interest and their desires first."

Mrs. Marion Booth Kelley announced that the Walker campaign committee has opened headquarters in room 1001 of the Commodore Hotel, and the women will hold a conference there every afternoon at 3 o'clock.

AUTO BANDITS SNATCH $10,000

Knock Down Cashier and Escape With American Tobacco Company Payroll Funds.

The east side manufacturing district was the scene of another daring daylight holdup to-day, when four bandits secured the $10,000 payroll of the American Cigar Company of Fifty-second street and the East River, after they had assaulted John Newman, forty-five years old, of 224 East Tremont avenue, the Bronx, the company's paymaster, and Edward Bohlofink, of 218 East Sixty-sixth street, his bodyguard.

The holdup occurred on Fifty-second street, between Second and Third avenues. The four holdup men escaped in an automobile that was driven at high speed down Second avenue.

Newman and his guard had been to the branch of the Corn Exchange Bank at Fifty-second street and Park avenue, where the paymaster had drawn the $10,000 with which to meet the company's factory payroll this afternoon.

After leaving the bank they walked east toward the factory on the north side of 12th street, between Third and Second avenues. They noticed the approach of four men, but there was nothing to indicate that a holdup was planned. Bohlofink carried a revolver in his pocket.

As the four men walking west of the street met the two one of the bandits, without uttering a word, began beating Newman on the head with the butt of a revolver. At the same time his three confederates also drew revolvers, and while two of them covered Bohlofink, the third took the paymaster's revolver from his pocket. At the same time, Newman had dropped to the ground, unconscious, under the
